Training Calendar 2022-23

Message from Director General, BARD

Every year, BARD organizes its Annual Planning Conference (APC) for evaluating performance of preceding year and formulating plan for current year. After this conference, Academy customarily publishes a training calendar accommodating all tentative training programmes and related events like seminars, workshops and conferences. The calendar helps BARD remain focused in the right direction in managing its overall training events and activities. The Training Calendar 2022-23 is another addition to this long practice of BARD. It will be circulated among relevant organizations and also uploaded on BARD website.

In the current year, Academy plans to organize a total of 137 training courses, seminars, workshops and conferences which include both national and international level programmes. This year, BARD is going to organize 25 training courses for grassroots level beneficiaries for their livelihood development with focus on income generation through diverse IGAs. BARD also have the plan to organize 10 in-house training courses for the officials of BARD for their capacity development. BARD will also continue its endeavor to organize professional development training programmes for various group of participants from GOs, NGOs, financial institutions and LGIs. I hope the training calendar will particularly help those organizations and persons who are willing to participate in Academy's training.

Md. Shahjahan
Director General

The Profile

Bangladesh Academy for Rural Development (BARD) is a center of excellence in training, research, action research and policy advocacy for rural development. The Academy was established in 1959 under the leadership of Dr. Akhter Hameed Khan to train government officials and representatives of the local government and village organizations on various subjects relating to rural development. It is an autonomous institution governed by a Board of Governors of which the Minister for Local Government, Rural Development and Cooperatives is the Chairperson. Administratively, it operates under the guidance of Rural Development and Co-operative Division, Ministry of Local Government, Rural Development and Cooperatives. The Director General acts as the Chief Executive of the Academy, and is assisted by one Additional Director General and nine Directors. The activities of the Academy are carried out by its Faculty working in nine Divisions each of which is headed by a Director. BARD is famous at home and abroad for its evolved model known as "Comilla Approach to Rural Development." The Academy received National Award in 1986 for its remarkable contribution to Rural Development.

Functions of the Academy

- Conduct research in rural development and allied fields;
- Conduct training of Government officials and others concerned with rural development;
- Test and experiment concepts and theories of development, and replicate where appropriate;
- Formulate, implement and evaluate projects and programmes relating to rural development;
- Provide advisory and consultancy service to the Government and other agencies;
- Guide and supervise national and foreign students and fellows in their dissertation works;
- Conduct national and international seminars, conferences and workshops;
- Help Government in policy formulation relating to rural development.

Training

The Academy is a designated national training institute. Its training clientele includes both officials and non-officials. The officials are civil servants, officers of nation building departments and international participants from the development sector while the non-officials are local Government representatives, local leaders and members of co-operatives, students of educational institutions and members of voluntary organizations. Besides, a large number of international clientele including scholars, fellows, consultants, government officials, members of diplomatic corps and international agencies visit the Academy for exposure to Academy's activities and experience sharing on rural development. TRAINING CALENDAR 2022-2023
